Free and open to the public, the summit kicks off on Tuesday, August 3 and continues August 4-5 with regionally hosted virtual events focused on Africa, Brazil, Canada and the Caribbean. The series culminates on August 31 with Reunity—hosted in partnership with the Women’s Philanthropy Institute at Indiana University—a gathering of Black women givers and funders of all identities and their allies. Interactivity, inclusivity and interconnectivity are drivers of each event and the entire month of August.

Events in the series have assembled leading minds in philanthropy and business investment to focus on social action to keep funders accountable to Black communities and to make equity real for Black-led and Black-founded

Black communities and to make equity real for Black-led and Black-founded nonprofits and businesses.

The August 2021 observance of Black Philanthropy Month is brought to communities worldwide with generous support from St. Jude Children's Research Hospital®—the BPM 2021 Signature Charity Partner—and dozens of sponsors and partners.

About Black Philanthropy Month

Supported by its backbone organization, The Women Invested to Save Earth Fund, partners and generous sponsors, Black Philanthropy Month is a philanthropy celebration and a year-round social action initiative, featuring a global campaign every August to elevate African-descent giving in all its forms. Founded by Dr. Jackie Bouvier Copeland in 2011 to empower Black philanthropists and advance funding (donations and investments) to strengthen Black communities everywhere. Recognized by the United Nations and 30 other governmental bodies, BPM continues to grow, building on the 18 million people from 60 countries who have celebrated it from inception.
